Last year marked the 25th anniversary of CIWA; it has been a year of unprecedented growth. The revised Strategic Plan and Business Plan are in place. CIWA increased its global budget by more than 33%, expanding existing programs and starting new ones. This happened because of the strong leadership of the Executive Director and the Management Team and the hard, dedicated work of CIWA Staff. The Board congratulates the organization on all of this year’s achievements.

The Board itself concentrated this year on the business of a policy-governance board. The Self-Governance committee finalized the Strategic Plan, reviewed CIWA Bylaws, and improved the process of record keeping and documentation. The Recruitment committee created a Board recruitment policy and established and documented the interview and orientation process for new Board members. The Finance committee reviewed and augmented financial management policies. The Fund Development committee ensured participation of all Board members in fund development, and assisted in preparation of the 25th anniversary gala. The Communications committee kept the Board informed of current issues related to immigrant women. The Human Resources committee, in conjunction with the Executive Director, established a process for the development of a salary grid that will ensure that CIWA is competitively positioned in the market. The Program committee created a comprehensive summary of CIWA programs and services to guide the Board in the program oversight function.

We would like to extend our appreciation to all stakeholders, in particular funders and partners, for their continuous support of CIWA’s business. We would also like to thank CIWA volunteers who donated countless hours serving CIWA’s clients in multiple ways. And finally, I would like to express gratitude to all Board members for their diligence and dedication, especially those who completed their term on the CIWA Board and are stepping down.
Message from the Executive Director

Over the years, Calgary has seen an increasing number of immigrants coming to our city with hopes and dreams for a better life and promising future for their children. CIWA’s specialized, women-focused services provide a healthy and supportive environment for our clients and their children and ensure their successful integration in our community.

This past year was extremely successful for CIWA. We saw huge growth and expansion of programs in the areas of enhanced language training, health, human rights, employment skills, housing support, and specialized programs for senior immigrant women. We served 11,377 clients through individual counselling sessions, workshops and group presentations. The success we have achieved stems from our dedication, responsiveness and ability to continuously adapt to the changing needs of our clients.

In collaboration with other immigrant serving agencies and our funders we embarked on a plan to address staff compensation and retention issues for the sector. We have already seen positive results that enhanced our staff retention rate and secured stability in clients’ services.

CIWA is extremely proud to have been recently recognized with a Quantum Leap Award for exemplary leadership and commitment to the United Way of Calgary and Area.

When I look back at the clients we served last year, and what they were able to achieve, I stand amazed at the level of skill and expertise they bring to Canada. I hope that by reading this report, you’ll catch a glimpse of the diverse strengths and talents of immigrant women in Calgary and feel proud of their accomplishments just as we all at CIWA are.

Beba Svigir
Executive Director
“She (the Counsellor) helped us through a hard time and helped us move into our current home. We would like to thank all the people that helped us find a permanent home.”

Settlement and Integration Services continue to support new immigrant and refugee clients by facilitating their integration and access to community support. Clients are provided assistance securing food, clothing, social and legal services. Many women accessing the Integration Program are multi-barriered and/or have been the victims of domestic violence.

Our longest running program, New Friends and Neighbourhood Groups, continues to provide immigrant women from diverse backgrounds with the opportunity to meet new people, make friends, and practice conversational English. In these groups, women share experiences, knowledge and information about community resources.

CIWA’s Volunteer Program supports all aspects of the agency and contributes to the integration of immigrant women into Canadian society. Many of the immigrant women volunteering for CIWA are able to make connections in the community, create a support network and gain valuable Canadian work experience.

To support immigrant women fleeing domestic violence, the Find Me a Home project began in July 2007. This project helps immigrant and refugee women facing multiple barriers secure affordable housing. CIWA assists immigrant women in their housing search and advocates on their behalf.

In August 2007, CIWA initiated the Human Rights Education project. Based on a “train-the-trainer” model, women from various ethnic communities are trained and provided with the tools to educate members of their respective communities about human rights laws. We generated a comprehensive resource manual that supports trainers in their presentations. The trainers speak Mandarin, Spanish, Tagalog, Dari and Farsi, and have delivered numerous workshops in their respective ethnic communities.

In the last year CIWA promoted healthy living among immigrant women and their families. Living Healthy: Education and Prevention of Type 2 Diabetes Among Immigrant Families provides education about the prevention of type 2 diabetes, a disease increasingly affecting immigrant populations. This disease is preventable through proper eating and exercise and our project incorporates education sessions, healthy cooking classes, healthy grocery shopping, family exercise, and information about health resources.

Further supporting the health needs of immigrant women, the Cervical Cancer Screening Project provided under-served immigrant women the opportunity to learn about cervical cancer and get screened for the disease. Understanding the importance of preventative measures, like screening, will contribute to the overall health and well-being of Calgary’s immigrant women.

Last year, CIWA implemented an innovative project targeting senior immigrant women. Senior Immigrant Women Take Arts and Crafts on the Road engages isolated senior immigrant women and involves them in the community. Participants share and learn craft skills as well as enhance their language skills in a group setting. They facilitate craft activities and share the skills they have learned with other groups in the community.

Language Training and Employment Services offers essential services to newcomers in their effort to integrate into Canadian society. Language Instruction for Newcomers to Canada (LINC) has expanded to offer 15 classes at CIWA and in the community.

The LINC program also added a pronunciation class for students in LINC levels 3 and up. The classes equip students with tools, strategies and techniques to help with accent reduction.

Pebbles in the Sand, a literacy program for immigrant and refugee women with less than six years of education in their native country, now serves nearly 150 women annually. A crucial component of this program is the promotion of family literacy. This program uses a holistic approach to language acquisition and has been extremely successful over the years.

In the spring of 2007, Language Training Services embarked on a research project called Knowing Your Literacy Students. The objective of this project was to create a culturally sensitive curriculum to help low literacy immigrant and refugee women transition into LINC or ESL programs. This project produced and published the “Knowing Your Literacy Students: Curriculum Guidelines and Cultural Manual” which was shared with other service providers. The manual can be downloaded from CIWA’s website.

An exciting new enhanced language training project began in September 2007. Advanced Training for Immigrant Women Seeking Employment as ESL Assistants trains immigrant women with teaching and/or human services backgrounds to become ESL assistants in Calgary. In collaboration with the Calgary Board of Education and Calgary Roman Catholic Separate School District, participants gain valuable Canadian classroom experience.

“I started learning English at CIWA. I feel more confident than before. Now, I can say that I am more independent. As an immigrant I am grateful to CIWA, it helped me a lot.”

- LINC student
To prepare immigrant women for the Canadian labour market, we offer a number of employment services and workshops that help our clients find meaningful employment in Calgary. The Receptionist Training Program provides language and skills enhancement training to immigrant women seeking employment in the administration field.

The Accounting Training Project, generously funded by ConocoPhillips, has helped immigrant women learn basic accounting principles through six-week sessions. Women are introduced to accounting in Canada as well as how to use Quick Books software.

Making Changes Program is a twelve-week pre-employment program that equips participants with the tools and knowledge to help them find meaningful employment.

All clients seeking employment services have the opportunity to receive individual job search support and participate in group workshops. CIWA staff offer support with resumes, interviews, and career planning. Group workshops support clients by providing information about interview skills, communicating with confidence, labour standards, networking skills, International Qualifications Assessment Service (IQAS) assessments and APEGGA (Association of Professional Engineers, Geologists, and Geophysicists of Alberta) qualifications.

“I am more comfortable and confident than before because I improved my pronunciation. I was afraid to talk to Canadians but now have the confidence to express myself.”

CIWA’s holistic approach to supporting immigrants has resulted in a number of family oriented programs. One of CIWA’s longest running programs, the Cross-Cultural Parenting Program has been bringing awareness of parenting issues, Canadian laws, community resources and positive parenting skills to immigrant families for 22 years.

In partnership with six other agencies, CIWA connects parents to community resources through the Hand-in-Hand Parent Link Centre at the Village Square Leisure Centre. The centre serves families in the Heart of the Northeast and aims at setting immigrant families up for success.

Working with the Calgary Health Region, CIWA offers prenatal support for immigrant women through the Best Beginning Program.

Parents are also provided post-natal services for their children through the Healthy Families Program. This program assists parents with newborns by ensuring children receive the appropriate care. Parents receive information about community resources and services to meet the needs of their family.

Family Conflict Program continues to work at increasing accessibility and decreasing barriers for immigrant women and their families, living in family conflict/violence situations. This work is done through support groups, crisis and short-term counselling, advocacy, referrals, and follow-ups.

Crossing-the-Bridge project targets specific East Asian and African communities to address family violence and bullying through cross-cultural counselling, advocacy and referral services. Extensive work is done with community and religious leaders to inform and educate communities about domestic violence.

13,000 phone calls made to Calgary Police Services related to domestic violence last year.
CIWA’s Youth Program supports young immigrant, refugee and visible minority women to become active in their schools and communities through volunteering. This contributes to young immigrant women becoming confident, educated and informed, enabling them to make successful lifelong decisions, and be role models to future generations.

In-Home Support Program serves families and children of diverse backgrounds facing multiple barriers and requiring early intervention from Calgary and Area Child and Family Services Authority. Twelve staff speaking a total of 21 languages offer first language support to clients. Last year, a total of 38 families with 100 children received support from CIWA’s In-Home Support workers.

To meet the changing needs of our clients, CIWA initiated a pilot project offering one-on-one counselling to senior immigrant women. This project has seen many successes since it began in November 2007. More than 250 participants have received information through community presentations and customized, culturally sensitive, in-home counselling services with first language support. One-on-one counselling has helped break the cycle of isolation many senior immigrant women deal with. Many of the clients involved in this program have gone on to participate in other CIWA programs and services such as Pebbles in the Sand, Senior Immigrant Women Take Arts & Crafts on the Road, and Employment Skills.

In 1982, a handful of visionary women created an organization to support the needs of immigrant women in Calgary. From humble beginnings, CIWA has grown to be one of the premiere immigrant serving agencies in the city. To celebrate CIWA’s 25 years of service, a gala event was held at the Calgary Chamber of Commerce.

The event brought together a diverse group of people representing our funders, corporate sponsors, community partners, CIWA clients, members, volunteers, Board members, and staff. For one evening we gathered together to celebrate and acknowledge the important contributions of immigrant women in the community.

This event successfully raised funds for our Pebbles in the Sand Program. The Pebbles Program offers a holistic approach of enhancing family literacy among non-literate immigrant women and their children.

We thank all of the people that made this event possible. With your continued support we will be able to serve immigrant women in Calgary for another 25 years!

Providing childcare services for our clients is essential for their successful integration. CIWA’s programs and services are supported by SMILES (Small Multicultural Immigrants Learning Early Strategies).

SMILES began in 1999 to provide free, quality child minding services to children ages six months to six years while their mothers attend CIWA programs. In the past year SMILES cared for 385 children.

The SMILES team customizes childcare services to accommodate on-site and off-site programs including: LINC, Pebbles in the Sand, New Friends and Neighbourhood Groups, Cross-Cultural Parenting, Canadian Pronunciation, Making Changes and educational workshops. SMILES benefits mothers by allowing them to attend programs and services, as well as the children by providing culturally sensitive, age-appropriate developmental activities to increase their school readiness. Children enhance their language development, social, cognitive, emotional, gross motor and fine motor skills.

In addition to daily learning activities such as crafts, singing, story time, and various play-based learning activities, the children in SMILES enjoy a variety of activities and special events to celebrate the changing of the seasons, holidays, birthdays and other celebrations. Children have the opportunity to go on field trips with their parents to the Calgary Zoo, Calgary Children’s Festival, Telus World of Science, Fort Calgary and Calgary Public Library.

CIWA recently acquired additional space for childcare services on the main floor at our main office location. Preparation of the space is currently underway and once it has been properly equipped, we will significantly increase our child minding capacity. This will reduce the waiting list for clients accessing LINC classes.

“We can do the alphabet and count with our children. We can talk about some of the things we learn in school. We sing and play games together.”

When Anna* first joined the childcare centre she was extremely challenging to deal with. She did not listen to the childcare staff, cried often, fought with other children and would do her own thing because she was not used to the classroom setting. She was not fond of sharing toys and doing activities with other children.

The childcare staff observed that Anna had many talents they could work with and try to develop. In time, she started responding well to their attention and affection. She began to adjust to the classroom setting, began listening to her teachers and interacting appropriately with the other children.

Now, Anna is a very happy child. She comes to CIWA with a smile on her face and expresses affection for her teachers and classmates. Anna is eager to join the class and play with her friends.

She is a born leader and helps her teachers and fellow classmates. She helps put the toys away at the end of playtime and ensures her classmates do the same. Anna especially enjoys craft activities and manipulative toys. She is getting the feel of painting and drawing and proudly presents her work to her mother.

Since joining the SMILES program, Anna has become a wonderful role model to her fellow students. She gets along with everyone and her English language abilities have improved significantly. She expresses her thoughts in grammatically correct sentences, listens to requests made by the teachers, uses “please and thank you” and is able to recite the alphabet and repeat numbers in sequence.

Tina is a passionate and gifted teacher. For her, teaching is the most rewarding and engaging work she has ever done. After immigrating to Canada, it seemed almost impossible to Tina that she might ever return to teaching. She felt overwhelmed by the barriers she faced as a new immigrant including adjusting to new customs and a new culture, as well as an immense language barrier.

After researching the “Advanced Training for Immigrant Women Seeking Employment as ESL Assistants” project at CIWA, Tina’s passion for teaching was reignited and her dreams of re-entering her profession were renewed.

When she joined the project, Tina was impressed with the enthusiasm and professionalism of the project staff, “They taught us to believe in ourselves and others, to love learning, to work hard, to manage stress and have strong values.” Furthermore, Tina relished the opportunity to learn from her classmates and work as a team. By the end of the project Tina felt fully prepared to work as an ESL assistant and help ESL students overcome similar barriers she herself had faced.

Farzana, an MBA graduate, immigrated to Canada from Pakistan a year and a half ago. With seven years of teaching experience in her home country, Farzana hoped to be able to re-enter the teaching profession in Canada. Unfortunately, the process to attain certification as a teacher with the Alberta Teachers Association (ATA) is a lengthy process, and job prospects without certification are very limited.

When Farzana heard about CIWA’s new enhanced language training project “Advanced Training for Immigrant Women Seeking Employment as ESL Assistants” she quickly applied. The project allowed her to gain valuable work experience in a Canadian classroom while using her teaching experience to work one-on-one with children. Farzana was accepted into the project and had the pleasure to learn alongside other immigrant women who were experienced educators from diverse backgrounds.

Through the project Farzana increased her understanding of the Canadian educational system, enhanced her knowledge of teaching strategies, heightened her cultural awareness and sensitivity, and improved her presentation and communication skills. The most significant benefit Farzana experienced was her increased self confidence and the sense of community developed through her friendships with fellow classmates and project staff.
Our Volunteers

Without the tireless effort of our volunteers, CIWA would simply be unable to provide the range and quality of services we currently offer. We strive to continuously recognize the important work of these valuable members of the CIWA team by holding volunteer recognition events throughout the year. We sincerely appreciate each and every one of our dedicated volunteers.

It is with the help of our partners that CIWA is able to deliver services to immigrant women throughout Calgary. They provide venues, services and referrals that enable us to continue the work that we do. We would like to acknowledge the support and commitment of each and every one of our partners.

THANK YOU!
