Tusti Majumder is originally from Bangladesh. She has a Master of Arts in English Literature and a Diploma in Business Administration with a focus in Accounting. Tusti taught a class called English Speaking and Writing at a local University. She and her husband moved to Vancouver where he studied at UBC; they later relocated to Calgary in 2013 for employment opportunities. Tusti enjoys traveling, watching movies, reading and shopping.

Tusti discovered CIWA while searching for immigrant services. She has benefited from a variety of services offered at CIWA. She began volunteering as she wished to give back and gain valuable Canadian workplace skills. Tusti has volunteered for special events, Tax Clinic and receptionist support. She also volunteers in the Volunteer Program office where she updates files, makes phone calls, mentors new volunteers, and much more.

Tusti enjoys volunteering at CIWA as her confidence has increased and she has gained valuable skills. She is grateful to be in a culturally diverse environment, she believes in the work CIWA does. She is glad to be part of an organization that helps immigrant women engage and integrate into Canadian Society.

Tusti was chosen as VOTM because she is helpful, committed, empathetic, and sincere. She is very friendly, approachable, hardworking and a reliable person. She is professional and works hard to help clients. Tusti earned this recognition because she has shown commitment towards her responsibilities whenever other volunteers, clients and staff need her.

Congratulations Tusti for being Volunteer of the Month for July!
